TITLE 2
APSAALOOKE NATION CODE OF LAWS
PROBATE CODE

Chapter 2.01 Legislative Findings and Purpose

2.01.010 Legislative Findings

The Crow Tribal Legislative Branch (CTLB), the governing body of the Apsaalooke Nation hereby finds the loss of lands from Indian ownership, and the increase in fractionated ownership of many lands held by tribal members threatens the long term viability of the Crow Reservation as a homeland for the exclusive use of the Tribe and its members; the CTLB further finds that authorizing and directing the Crow Tribal Court to hear and determine probate proceedings will simplify the probate process for surviving family members, will encourage tribal members to plan for the transfer of their property upon their deaths, and further strengthen the Tribe's powers of self-governance.

2.01.020 Declaration of Policy

The Crow Tribal Legislative Branch of the Crow Tribal Government (CTLB) hereby declares that the policy of the Apsaalooke Nation is to prevent further deterioration of the land base of the Tribe, to prevent as far as possible the further fractionation of ownership of Tribal members' property, to encourage Tribal members to plan for the transfer of their property upon their deaths by making wills, and to strengthen the Tribe's self-governance by providing a means for probating estates in Crow Tribal Court.

2.06.050 Revival

If, after making any will, the testator shall duly make and execute a second will, the destruction, cancellation or revocation of the second will shall not revive the first will. If the subsequent will is determined invalid, the first will shall not be deemed revoked.

2.06.060 Death of Related Devise or Legatee Before Testator

When an estate shall be devised or bequeathed to any child, grandchild, or other relative of the testator, and such devisee or legatee shall die before the testator, having lineal descendants who survive the testator, such descendants shall take the estate, real and personal, as such devisee or legatee would have done in the case he had survived the testator; if such descendants are all in the same degree of kinship to the predeceased devisee or legatee they shall take equally, or, if of unequal degree, then those of more remote degree shall take by representation in respect to such predeceased devisee or legatee. A spouse is not a relative under the provisions of this section.

2.06.070 Lapsed Legacy or Devise

2.06.090 Will to Operate On After-Acquired Property

Any estate, right, or interest in property acquired by the testator after the making of his will shall pass as if title thereto was vested in him at the time of making the will, unless the language of the will makes clear the testator's intention was otherwise.

2.06.100 Contribution Among Devisees and Legatees

When any testator in his last will shall give any personal property or real estate to any person and the same shall be taken in execution for the payment of the testator's debts, then all the other legatees, devisees, and heirs shall refund their proportional part of such loss to such person from whom the bequest shall be taken.

2.060.110 Intent of Testator Controlling

All courts and others concerned in the execution of last wills shall have due regard to the direction of the will, and the true intent and meaning of the testator in all matters brought before them shall control unless prohibited by law.

2.06.120 Omitted Child Born or Adopted After Execution of Will

(a) If a will fails to name or provide for a child of the decedent who is born or adopted by the decedent after the will's execution and who survives the decedent, referred to in this section as an "omitted child," the child must receive a portion of the decedent's estate as provided in subsection (c) of this section, unless it appears either from the will or from other clear and convincing evidence that the failure was intentional.

(b) In determining whether an omitted child has been named or provided for, the following rules apply:

- a. A child identified in a will by name is considered named whether identified as a child or in any other manner.
- b. A reference in a will to a class described as the children, descendants, or issue of the decedent who are born after the execution of the will, or words of similar import, constitutes a naming of a person who falls within the class. A reference to another class, such as a decedent's heirs or family, does not constitute such a naming.
- c. A nominal interest in an estate does not constitute a provision for a child received the interest.

(c) The omitted child must receive an amount equal in value to that which the child would have received under Chapter 2.05 of this Title if the decedent had died intestate, unless the court determines on the basis of clear and convincing evidence that a smaller share, including no share at all, is more in keeping with the decedent's intent. In making the determination, the court may consider, among other things, the various elements of the decedent's dispositive scheme, provisions for the omitted child outside the decedent's will, provisions for the decedent's other children under the will and otherwise, and provisions for the omitted child's other parent under the will and otherwise.

- (c) In satisfying a share provided by this section, the bequests made by the will abate as provided in Chapter 2.12.

2.06.130 Omitted Spouse Married After Execution of Will

- (a) If a will fails to name or provide for a spouse of the decedent whom the decedent marries after the will's execution and who survives the decedent, referred to in this section as an "omitted spouse," the spouse must receive a portion of the decedent's estate as provided in subsection (c) of this section, unless it appears either from the will or from other clear and convincing evidence that the failure was intentional.
- (b) In determining whether an omitted spouse has been named or provided for, the following rules apply:
 - a. A spouse identified in a will by name is considered named whether identified as a spouse or in any other manner.

- b. A reference in a will to the decedent's future spouse or spouses, or words of similar import, constitutes a naming of a spouse whom the decedent later marries. A reference to another class such as the decedent's heirs or family does not constitute a naming of a spouse who falls within the class.
- c. A nominal interest in an estate does not constitute a provision for a spouse receiving the interest.
- (c) The omitted spouse must receive an amount equal in value to that which the spouse would have received under Chapter 2.04 of this Title if the decedent has died intestate, unless the court determines on the basis of clear and convincing evidence that a smaller share, including no share at all, is more in keeping with the decedent's intent. In making the determination the court may consider, among other things, the spouse's property interests under applicable community property or quasi-community property laws, the various elements of the decedent's dispositive scheme, and a marriage settlement or other provision and provisions for the omitted spouse outside the decedent's will.
- (d) In satisfying a share provided by this section, the bequests made by the will abate as provided in chapter 2.12.

2.06.140 Omission of Spouse or Child Living at Execution of a Will

If a will fails to provide for a spouse to whom the decedent was married at the time of the execution of a will, or a child born or adopted and living at the time of the execution of the will, the spouse or child so excluded shall receive that portion of the estate to which he would have been entitled under the rules of intestate succession unless the decedent's will specifically and clearly states the intent to exclude the name spouse or child.
